OVERVIEW

Erica P. Bigelow, Of Counsel, concentrates on real estate and business transactions and litigation.

She has represented individual and corporate developers in a variety of commercial and multi-family residential projects, from property identification and due diligence, through zoning, wetlands and planning permits, to acquisition and construction financing. Erica's real estate litigation practice focuses on contract disputes, including construction contracts, partnership agreements, permit appeals, and title matters, including easements, adverse possession and lien priority issues.

She is one of the principal drafters of historic legislation which reformed, modernized, and expanded the Massachusetts Homestead Act.
