Leah Cohen and David Lyons Join Rich May

By: Rich May

Rich May P.C. is thrilled to welcome Leah Cohen and David Lyons to the firm! Leah and David both join Rich May's Energy, Renewables & Regulated Industries practice group, and David also joins the Commercial Real Estate group.

Leah and David both represent electric and gas public utilities and municipal aggregators in the Commonwealth on energy efficiency initiatives and other energy-related matters. David's real estate practice also includes permitting and litigation under local land use laws and state and federal environmental laws.

"We are thrilled to have David and Leah joining our energy practice," said Managing Director Emmett Lyne. "They each bring a passion for the subject matter, tremendous analytical and legal skills, and warm, engaging personalities. They add intellectual dynamism and a commitment to finding sustainable, fair, and long-term solutions in the exciting field of energy. David also brings demonstrated expertise in environmental litigation and real estate permitting, while Leah adds deep experience in public policy and legislative matters. We are delighted to have them both on our team."
